

FREE ESTATES SEMINARS

24 September, 2013 Southampton

NHS estates and facilities personnel have praised the series of free to attend, one-day Healthcare Environment and Infrastructure events being held across the country. The next one is scheduled for 24 September, 2013, at The Point, Southampton.

Geoff Rawlings, head of capital development at Sheffield Health and Social Care NHS Foundation Trust, said: "I attended the HEI event in Manchester. I found it informative with short, to the point, presentations and good trade stands. There was also a good opportunity for networking with colleagues and technical representatives.

"I found the ProCure21+ update very helpful especially on the development of standard room designs.

"The event is flexible to suit our needs, and I attended all presentations, however delegates can attend whichever they think is most pertinent to their particular interest."

David Williams, building manager at Stockport NHS Foundation Trust, explained: "The reason we attended was the high quality of the speakers. When we had the opportunity to hear such presentations and to go for free we jumped at the chance.

"Particularly relevant for me were the presentations on water in healthcare premises."

The events offer a series of free to attend 30-minute presentations by expert and leading industry speakers on a series of topics, all highly relevant to today's healthcare environment. There is also a concurrent exhibition.

Delegates to the event enjoy a free buffet lunch and tea and coffee throughout the day. There's free parking and Wi-Fi too.

Topics covered at HEI Southampton will include:

- Combined Heat and Power for Hospitals
- Save Money and Reduce your Carbon Footprint - Guaranteed
- Strategic Estates Partnership - PropCo Update
- BIM Building Information Modelling and the Relevance to both New Build and Facilities Management
- Modern Methods of Construction for Healthcare
- The latest on Legionella and Pseudomonas, Approved Code of Practice L8 and HTMs for Health Care Services
- Further presentations will be announced shortly.
